Wed Magazine is a trusted and much-loved brand both amongst Cornwall and Devon's wedding industry, and couples planning their weddings in these counties.

Described as a 'wedding planning bible' by many readers, Wed Magazine has grown from a quarterly 68-page publication to a bumper coffee-table style magazine featuring in excess of 156 pages, as well as a comprehensive website. It is now the go-to wedding planning resource for quality suppliers and creative ideas in Cornwall and Devon.

"Wed's vision is unparalleled in any other wedding publication in the UK in its attention to detail and quality. The thrill of flicking through the glossy pages to see if any Trevenna images have been included in the latest Wed edition is addictive – so much so that every Wed edition is a treasure here in Trevenna's archives."

Jonathan Rowe, Trevenna

"Ever since Wed Magazine landed, I've been hooked! At last, imagination with creativity – each edition an heirloom to treasure. Thank you for giving the bridal industry in the south-west the showcase we've all been waiting for – no one else comes close!"

Linda Duriez, founder of Pirouette & owner/designer of Days of Grace Vintage

"The past few years that we have been advertising in Wed Devon have been great and, although we only host eight weekend weddings each year, we find that a large proportion of these come through our advert with you."

Sarah Marsh, Coombe Trenchard

"We always ask where brides have found us and Wed Magazine is always mentioned. Often a bride is clutching her copy with a picture of a dress that has been featured, which is advertising working at its best for us. The team are so supportive and I would recommend anyone in the bridal industry to advertise."

Elaine Rawlings, Elaine Rawlings Bridal Boutique

"We have a huge amount of referrals from our advert and most brides seem to have bought a copy and refer to it for ideas."

Caroline Williams, Scorrier House

"We have been advertising with Wed Magazine for many years and we couldn't be happier with the continued results and the professional service. When you advertise with Wed, the team do their best to ensure maximum exposure for your business and are always thinking of innovative marketing opportunities."
